

The 2010-2013 Tenure Review Handbook defines self-evaluation as "a written statement (of one to two pages) by the Candidate including self-assessment and plans for future professional growth." These two areas could be addressed in many formats, such as in the outline examples below:

OUTLINE EXAMPLE #1:

In my self-evaluation, I will discuss the three areas I focused on this past year:

- curriculum development: I was involved in a project of... Our goal... My role involved... The outcomes included...
- classroom vs lab: one important component in the curriculum project was a close look at how/where students could best master outcomes for Courses X and Y. The plan I developed was.... What I didn't expect was....
- training: to keep current in the discipline, I attended....

My future plans are to continue to address.... as well as....

OUTLINE EXAMPLE #2

Looking Back: Phase I & II
Looking Back: Student Success
Looking Ahead: Areas to Improve
Looking Ahead: Future Goals

OUTLINE EXAMPLE #3

Development as Educator and Member of ---- Dept
Feedback from Administrative, Peer, Student Evaluations
Areas for Future Growth

OUTLINE EXAMPLE #4

My experiences in the classroom have been a mix of ....

A summary of evaluations I've received highlight what I consider my two strengths..... Areas in which my committee suggested I improve include...

Based on above, my plans for professional development include... I also would like to develop in the area of...

OUTLINE EXAMPLE #5 (based on TRHandbook evaluation criteria)

- job performance
- student interactions
- collegiality
- professional contributions
- professional growth

OUTLINE EXAMPLE #6

Where I started from....
Where I am now....
Where I plan to go...