Agenda

 Review themes Focus on key themes College level communication Inform campus Solicit campus feedback

Where were we?

Defined our themes: Community Inclusivity Life of Inquiry Curiosity Adaptability

Community

Five years from now, what would you see, feel and hear if Foothill valued

How do we get there?

People and

Inclusivity

Five years from now, what would you see, feel and hear if Foothill valued.

art, murals, posters, flyers, services that just about relate to and connect with all communities and

It would go beyond hearing all are welcome! It would look like reaching out to people by interest with the intention of building a community

Instruction, services, and supports that can accommodate various demands/needs that are obvious and visible to students and employees

Where students can find their community/communit ies (however they define them)

Rethinking policies, services and infrastructure

for all communities

How do we get there?

Changing the culture and practices. Rethinking district college, and division/department policies

We can get there by having wider, braver and open channels of communication. Having policies that create a least restrictive environment.

Building strong communities that can embrace all our students silos that separate services and instruction to forge a truly welcoming campus

Breaking down the

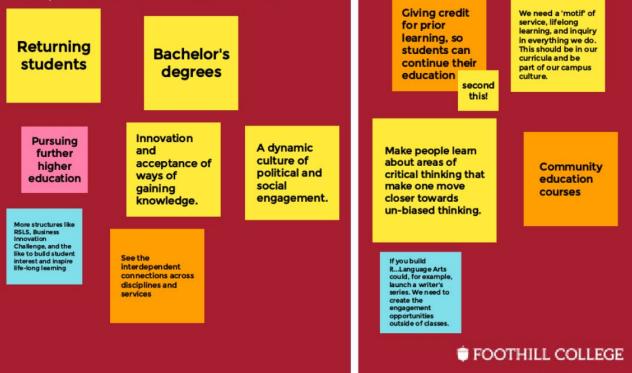

Openness to see that the responsibility for student success extends beyond our individual iob classification (cross campus function)

FOOTHILL COLLEGE

Life of Inquiry

Five years from now, what would you see, feel and hear if Foothill valued....

How do we get there?

Curiosity

What does this term mean?

Always asking how we can exceed students' expectations.

Wanting to know more about everything! Not being stuck in one's thinking, but being willing to listen to others and learn from them.

Curiosity is an idea that takes you towards learning and makes you work towards learning.

It's that impulse that drives us to ask questions, seek out new experiences. and pursue knowledge

A foundation and starting point to where the college wants to go

> Wondering about possibilities

> > no-wrong oor approach o education. A no-door to ed

Five years from now, what would you see, feel and hear if Foothill valued

How do we get there?

emphasis on standard testing approaches, more project based learning, more engagement (in-person and online).

More experiential

Be curious. ourselves. Participate in learning with our students.

Bringing in community, lived experiences into how we teach and create programs

FOOTHILL COLLEGE

Adaptability

What does this term mean?

Ability (for a person or system) to adjust, change, and/or evolve in response to new circumstances, challenges, and/or environments

It means being flexible, tolerant and adjust to changes with a positive attitude.

Recognize there is no one right way to facilitate student success

Flexible and understanding regardless of role on campus

Increase our comfort with being uncomfortable as things change (student issues/needs. compliance mandates, discipline standards, etc.)

Our students will be faced with enormous challenges. They will need a broad skill set to be able to engage with a rapidly changing world (environment. :hing).

Tolerance for ambiguity

Five years from now, what would you see, feel and hear if Foothill valued....

A more resilient institution, able to withstand challenges and setbacks without losing motivation or giving up	Proactive not reactive	Our students would have the intellectual and emotional tools to thrive in challenging times.	Being more proactive about addressing problems and seizing opportunities. As much as a college can, break free of our own inertia	Being able to identity the work we do to support students and employeeswhat are we trying to achieve
l would feel compassion from others	the ongoing continuous improvement cycle	efforts to improve even if not successful	Cultural shift focused on compassion & empathy	Curricula and support services that prepare our students to thrive in challenging timesemotional as well as intellectual development.

Foothill would become a great place for people to share ideas and make meaningful conversations.

How do we get there?

Develop common language about what goals we are trying to meet so we can work together and be flexible with ongoing efforts
